

STANDING HIGH is Douglas Deeds who designed this cylindrical core system made for free-span roof structures. It consists of a core of small aluminum cylinders bonded between aluminum sheets. The concept is capable of being expanded to any length, width or thickness and can be fabricated into nearly any shape. For his work, Deeds won a $2,000 commission in Alcoa's Ventures in Design program.

SPARKING INTEREST in metalworking, Red Cross vocational specialist Michael Naumer of Santa Fe, N.M., demonstrates for a group of South Vietnamese refugees. The 26-year-old teacher organized the Quang Tin Provincial Training Center as a centralized location where vocational skills could be taught to war victims.

ART CLASS is a time for concentration as these photos taken at a Kingsport, Tenn., elementary school show. Brushes, paints and an eye for composition help, but apparently there's nothing like a well-co-ordinated tongue to make everything go just right for these first- and second-graders. One youngster would rather not look at the results of his efforts.

BEVY OF BLIMPS fills the sky and it looks as though the little guy can't fit into the big group. Rare shot shows an assemblage of the world's only operational airships at Akron, Ohio. From the top are the Mayflower, based in Miami; the America, Houston; and the Columbia, Los Angeles. The other two ships have been retired.

CHANGING HIS STYLE? Jazz musician, composer and band leader Duke Ellington, right, doffs a straw hat and extends his lower lip in a style made famous by Maurice Chevalier, left. The two show-business veterans have a combined age of 151 years: Ellington is 70 and Chevalier is 81.

UNDER FIRE, a medic treats a wounded GI during bombardment by Communist rockets. Two soldiers were killed and 11 wounded during this attack on Special Forces camp at Bu Prang.

NEW YEAR, OLD STORY. Israelis celebrated the beginning of a new year in September, but the first light of 5730 shone down on an old story—war. In this photo, weapons and helmets bake in the hot Sinai sun near a tent serving as headquarters for an Israeli artillery unit.

HIS NOSE KNOWS. Narco-dog "Bomber" paws at a hubcap behind which marijuana was planted by his trainer. "Bomber" reportedly is the only dog which can sniff out both marijuana and hashish, a concentrated form of marijuana. According to his trainer, "Bomber" can sniff out marijuana growing wild, buried underground or even when other smells are introduced in an attempt to confuse the animal.

INSIDE-OUT VIEW from rear of a seven-ship formation of Army helicopters shows the Saigon River twisting across the Vietnamese countryside. The 'copters were airlifting troops.

America In a Showcase

At Japan's World Expo '70, America's pavilion will be notable for the largest clear-span, air-supported roof ever built. The translucent, glass-fiber, vinyl-coated dome will be the approximate size of two football fields. Internal pressure from air blowers will keep it inflated with three-hundredths of a pound of pressure per square inch. Largest single exhibit area in the pavilion will show our accomplishments in space. In addition, there will be a gallery of sports equipment (including the Indy championship car and some dune buggies), pictorial masterpieces and a display of Indian and Eskimo folk art.

GUERRILLA LEADER Yassir Arafat, head of the Al Fatah Arab commando organization, is preceded by an armed bodyguard as he leaves a building in Damascus, Syria. Arafat and other guerrilla leaders have worked out an agreement with the Lebanese army permitting limited operations against Israel.

Group Wants to Vote on Playing Dixie

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The newly organized Equity and Grievance Committee at the University of Arkansas has circulated petitions asking that students be allowed to vote on whether "Dixie" should be played at the Arkansas-Texas game here Saturday.

The committee, a student-faculty group established to "assure fair and equal treatment for all," said 1,200 persons had signed the petitions.

The committee, in a prepared statement, recommended that the song not be played at school functions in the future.

The statement, however, recommended that the band play the song during the first half of the game and not the fight song and then play the fight song and now "Dixie" during the second half.

Hunter is Happy 'Airport' Grounded

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — The preview audience was very excited about Liza Minnelli and "The Sterile Cuckoo," and the words "Oscar" and "Liza" were mentioned in the same breath more than once. When the rating flashed on the screen—"R" for Restricted —Darren McGavin led the chorus of boos.

"Every kid in the country should see this picture," Darren said afterwards.

Ross Hunter says he's happy that Universal has decided not to release "Airport" until the spring. Hunter, the producer of the big and expensive film, says that now he won't have to rush the editing and he feels the result will be better.

The first film based on James Michener's novel, "Hawaii," was admired and respected by the average Hawaiian man-in-the-street. But Hawaii's ruling five families didn't like it, and they've been making things tough for the company, shooting the second part, to be called "The Hawaiians."

The studio wanted to shoot in an old church on Maui. They officially requested permission from the church board, and permission was granted. But then the largest single contributor—one of the five families—objected, and the board reversed itself. They had to shoot the scene somewhere else.

Director George Roy Hill is high in the praise of the Mexican actors, largely unbilled, who played the Bolivians in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

When you see the film, watch for the sequence—silent—where Robert Redford and Katharine Ross on a bank owner into opening his safe, and then when it's opened, proceed to rob him. The banker is played by a Mexican actor named Francesco Cordova.

"He did a piece of business," Hill says, "that was so

Cookies Make The Holidays

New idea for brownies

It's Holiday Time, and time for plenty of scrumptious-tasting cookies around the house. The home economists of the Kraft Kitchens have prepared a group of favorites from their files for your holiday enjoyment. Why not treat the family with these goodies?

Princess Brownies

1 pkg. family size brownie mix 1/2 cup sugar
1 8-oz. pkg. Philadelphia 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Brand Cream Cheese 1 egg

Prepare brownie mix as directed on package. Combine softened cream cheese and sugar; mix until well blended. Stir in vanilla and egg. Spread half of brownie batter into a greased 13x9-inch baking pan; cover with cream cheese mixture and spoon on remaining brownie batter. Bake at 350° 35 to 40 minutes. 4 dozen bars.

Crispy Clusters

1/2 cups Kraft Miniature 1 cup shredded coconut
Marshmallows 1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup Parkay Margarine 1 6-oz. pkg. semi-sweet
1/2 cups rice cereal chocolate pieces, melted

Melt marshmallows with margarine over low heat; stir until smooth. Add cereal, coconut and nuts; mix well. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto waxed paper. Top clusters with melted chocolate; chill. 3 to 4 dozen.

Caramel Nut Crisps

49 (14-oz. bag) Kraft Caramels 1 cup corn flakes
3 tablespoons water 1 1/2 cups shredded coconut
2 cups crisp cereal 1 cup chopped nuts

Melt caramels with water in double boiler or in saucepan over low heat. Stir occasionally until sauce is smooth. Pour over combined cereals, coconut and nuts; toss until well coated. Drop in clusters on greased baking sheet; let stand until firm. 3 1/2 dozen clusters.

Dash and elegance continue to be the theme of Ben Kahn's fur collections year after year. For Fall '69 his designs run the gamut from mini to maxi, from luxury furs to the fun and sport breed. Committee members for Just One Break, a placement agency for the handicapped, were among the models showing the line. Floor length Somali leopard (left) has matching floor-length scarf. For that very special evening (center) the Empress chinchilla floor-length coat. New York socialite, Mrs. Thomas Kempner, (right) wears mountain lion walking coat with lynx collar and lining.

subtle I didn't catch it when we were shooting. It wasn't until the film had opened that I realized what he had done—and it was masterful."

A quote from a typical mother—who just happens to be Lucille Ball, but could be anybody:

"Thank God my daughter (Lucie) has gotten over going with fishheads and surf bums."

Any teen-age girl who doesn't love Bobby Sherman has a faulty id. This good-looking boy with the makes-you-want-to-mother-him stunner, has parlayed his role on Here Come the Brides into something very big. Sherman's marching again.

But he's living dangerously. He dates his girl fans. And Rule One of the Young Male Stars' Handbook is,

"Keep away from the fans, Clyde, you can get in big trouble." But Bobby figures he's a good judge of character—he did study psychology at Pierce College, after all—and can tell the nice chicks from the ones who could gouge him.

"I have a knack for psychology," he says. (So had Sigmund Freud, and look where he is.) "I use psychology in my work every day. I used it on the show. I won't mention names, but a couple of the people on the show had hang-ups, and I was able to help them work things out."

Sherman says he is gradually abandoning the stunner which helped establish him.

"It served its purpose," he says. "But it got to be like a wart—it was always there and a bit of a nuisance."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

ILLEGAL SEARCH?

Dear Helen: Quite a sum of money was stolen from our teacher. The principal came in and gave us a big fat lecture. He was so sure that one of us had taken the money that he decided to search us.

First our purses were turned upside down. Then he looked in all our shoes and pockets. As if that wasn't enough, the girls were taken to the nurses office and practically stripped, and the boys got the same treatment.

Nothing was ever found. One teacher said that if we were innocent we shouldn't object to a little search to prove it.

Don't you think this was going too far? — BOILING

Dear Boiling: I certainly do! — H.

Dear Helen: My folks say we can't get new furniture until I teach my cat not to scratch the davenport.

I made a really great rug-covered stand that any normal feline would flip over. I even rubbed catnip on it. What does ours do? He rubs his nose against it and purrs, then stalks over and scratches the holy heck out of our sofa! I spank him, I yell, I even squirt him with a water pistol, but he waits until I'm out of the room and he's at it again!

Can anyone please tell me how you train a cat? — FEDUP WITH A SHREDDER

Dear Fed: Very slowly—if at all! You can lead a cat to a scratching board but you can't make him scratch—unless he wants to. Especially if he has discovered a favorite sofa-arm. Suggestions, anyone? — H.

Dear Helen: Everybody seems to be getting in on the act, so here's my "What Is A" contribution: WHAT IS A HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE?

He's the one person who never brags about how much good he does for the team.

He's the one who spends long hours at practice but never complains about a single one (tough you do, to yourself!)

He's that big strong guy who'd do anything for you—even to explaining the game—but you just don't understand.

He's the one you get to see least often, but then he makes up for it most.

He comes to your house to see you, and ends up watching "a very important game" on TV.

He's the one who calls you long enough to say, "I'm still alive," then rushes off to either homework or practice.

He's the one who reminds you of that terrific play he made, but just smiles if you didn't catch it.

His intentions are the greatest, but somehow the games always get in the way.

He's the one who makes you feel so proud, but you can't tell him because he'll blush.

He's the one important person in your life and you're awfully glad he's important to the school and all those other cheering people too! — STEPHANE

Swedish Sex Film Sent to High Court

By BARRY SCHWEID

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Distributors of "I Am Curious (Yellow)" have sent a copy of the Swedish sex film to the Supreme Court along with a plea that would make legal history.

Grove Press, Inc., asked the justices Wednesday to conduct their own private showing of the erotic hit and conclude it is not obscene.

Beyond that, though, the American distributors asked the justices to rule that no official may prevent adults from seeing any movie in an American theater—whether it is obscene or not.

This plea seeks to expand a major free speech ruling by the court last April that possession of obscene films or printed matter in the privacy of a man's home cannot be considered a crime.

"There is no rational distinction," attorneys for Grove Press said, "between the right of a person to satisfy his intellectual and emotional needs in the privacy of his own home and his right to satisfy those needs in the privacy of a movie theater."

Besides, they added, "only adults who voluntarily elect to see the film will view it, and they are free to leave the theater at any time if it does not meet their expectations."

The Supreme Court, in 1961, ruled the Constitution permits officials to censor films before they are shown publicly. Since then, however, the court has upset various film bans and warned that distributors must have a chance to test the censors' rulings quickly.

Customs officials seized "I Am Curious (Yellow)" when it was first imported from Sweden at the end of 1967. The U.S. Court of Appeals in New York City ordered it released for distribution in November 1968.

Since then more than 2 1/2 million Americans have seen the movie in 25 states and the District of Columbia.

Bridge wouldn't be much fun if the players restricted themselves to the 15 essential words. (Spades, hearts, diamonds, clubs and no-trump; the numbers one to seven, pass, double and redouble.)

On the other hand too much conversation is far worse than no conversation at all. Thus when South looked at dummy he might well have contented himself with something like, "Thank you, partner," instead of "We've really underbid this one."

A little constructive thought would have been better than any conversation because South proceeded to work out a way to go down at four spades.

He ruffed the club lead in dummy and promptly cashed his ace and king of trumps. East showed out on the second trump and now South proceeded to do some concentrated thinking but it was too late.

He saved something from the wreck by ruffing a second club; returning to his hand with the jack of diamonds; cashing his ace of trumps and leading a second diamond. He didn't save much because East played the nine of diamonds when the low one was led from dummy. West recognized that as a signal to show an even number of diamonds and proceeded to ruff the second diamond so South wound up down two.

You can see what South should have done. All he had to do to insure his contract against that 4-1 break in trumps was to lead a low trump at trick three. He would be giving up the extra overtrick but trumps do break 4-1 on occasion, and what is an overtrick compared to game and rubber? (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

The Ravages of Erosion, Abrasion Can Be Halted
By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: Recently you wrote about lemon juice and tooth erosion. Will you please advise what can be done when one has erosion to keep it from getting worse?—Mrs. B.J.H., LaCrosse, Wis.

ANSWER: Erosion is a wearing away of the enamel and dentin near the gums, and presents a modified saucer-like appearance.

However, most dentists refer to this wearing away as abrasion rather than erosion. It is generally believed that mechanical wearing away of tooth structure (abrasion) is more often the cause than chemical wearing away (erosion). Poor tooth-brushing habits are a frequent cause of abrasion.

What to do about erosion—abrasion?

If they're not deep and don't threaten to expose the nerve or do not irritate the gums, they can be treated with fluoride compounds. This desensitizes them and can stop or slow up the E-A syndrome.

If the depressions are deep, or if they offend cosmetically, they can be filled with any of the various tooth filling materials which best fit the situation.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: My granddaughter had an accident when she was 18 months old. She hung onto the back bumper of a car and knocked two upper front teeth completely out.

She's 6 now and her permanent teeth haven't come in yet. Do you think she'll ever get her second teeth? And what shall we do about it?—Worried Grandma, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

DEAR WORRIED

Of course there's a small chance that the permanent tooth buds were injured in the accident. And if they were there is further chance that eruption will be delayed or worse. But without any symptoms at the time of accident, it's doubtful if the permanent tooth buds were injured.

A quick look by your dentist should be enough to establish the position of the teeth in the gums. And if he's suspicious that something is wrong, an X ray of the area could help clarify the situation.

X rays should be taken only if absolutely necessary. Children should not be exposed to X ray unless it's important for diagnostic purposes. And if X ray is necessary, the child should be draped with a leaded apron to protect against possible "spray" radiation.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Moon Module

The Apollo 11 command module that returned American astronauts Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins from the moon contains some 15 miles of wire—wire enough to supply 50 two-bedroom houses with electricity. The spacecraft uses only 3,000 watts of electricity, or about the voltage required by an electric range.

Q-How did the Sistine Chapel at the Vatican get its name?
A-It was named for Pope Sixtus IV in whose reign it was erected.

Q-How did the expression "knock on wood" to bring good luck originate?
A-It goes back to an early form of worship when primitive man worshiped nature and, in particular, trees. So primitive man rapped on trees in order to summon up spirits that would favor whatever he planned to do.

Bobcats in Victory Over DeQueen

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

The Hope Bobcats powered over the DeQueen Leopards 54-44 last night at Jones Field House in the home opener before a good crowd.

Now 2-1 for the young season, the Cats will now go to Arkadelphia on Monday night for the Ouachita Invitational for a 7:45 p.m. date with tough Ouachita High of Friendship, a Class A powerhouse. DeQueen's loss made them 2-2 for the month.

And Hope did it without the crushing height domination of 6-6 John Dudley, and 6-5 Larry Muldrew, and 6-2 Charles Rateliff. None of the three saw consistent action, and the first two both had four personals at the half and later fouled out.

DeQueen came out with a tight zone defense that caught the Bobcats a little off their shooting norm, though by the half Hope was 52 per cent from the field.

Leopard Jackie Bell hit a three-point play after 70 seconds for a 5-2 lead which DeQueen did not give up easily. It was also a slow-down affair involving two-running teams content to "take it easy".

Guard Parker Powell, who finally led Hope's balanced attack with 14 points, hit his first basket in the closing seconds to cut the Leopard lead to 12-10 at the quarter. And though behind, every Bobcat player and fans knew down deep that this one would be a winner.

Muldrew hit two field goals to help make up the difference, but the Bobcats never led until big John Dudley tapped one in for a 16-15 lead with 5:54 left in the half.

Another three-point play, this one by hot hand Don Helms, kept DeQueen within one at 20-19 with Dudley's fourth foul half-way through the period. Suddenly Hope went hot with Ronny Brown sacking two 15-footers and Parker Powell another for a 26-19 margin, but free shots cut it to 29-24 at the break.

It was a lethargic third segment with neither team making a serious challenge. Hope messed around with a lead that fluctuated from four to nine points, but couldn't put it away yet.

Really, it wasn't that the Cats were making so many mistakes, (after the game Coach John Ross said "we did effectively cut our errors in this one") but the Leopards were controlling the ball and taking up to a minute to set up a single shot.

Lynn Norton got a tipin for a 38-32 Hope cushion into the finale, which was decided quickly. Muldrew hit three two-pointers, Tommy Webb hit another, and Powell sank a 17-footer to make it 48-34 with 3:20 showing.

All that was left was plenty of foul shots for both sides, as Powell scored eight points and Helms seven in the last five minutes alone.

Guard David Briggs came in when Brown fouled out with 5:47 to go and helped effectively control the desperate DeQueen press in the closing minutes, as did Johnny Johnson and Tim White. Of those who dressed out, only Ronnie Massanelli and Roger Newton failed to see action.

It was a slow but sure victory which Coach John Ross talked of following the finish, but he again was pleased with the total team effort and with the best-balanced scoring so far this season.

Ouachita will be a rough one Monday night, as will the Curdon Go-Devils up in Curdon on Tuesday, but the Hope Bobcats are once again becoming a team to be reckoned with, and a team with plenty of future.

Hope Girls Get Taste of Victory

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Victory for the first time came sweetly last night for the Hope Lady Cats and Yegger Bobkittens against DeQueen at Jones Field House, and for the Yegger Kitty Cats on Thursday afternoon at Prescott.

After some close early defeats, Coach Jo Adcock's Kitty Cats edged past Prescott 25-22 there on Thursday afternoon.

With an 8-6 halftime lead, Yegger still had to come from behind with ten points in the final quarter after trailing 16-15. Guards Betty Honeycutt, Judy Reyenga, and Debbie Crank did a good job on defense for the Kitty Cats.

Janet McCain tallied 12 and Julia Brown hit 7 of 11 free shots for 11 points to lead Hope, and Karlene Coleman added two. Payne had nine and Cornelius six for Prescott. In an earlier 'B' junior girls game Prescott prevailed 35-15.

In the first game last night at Jones Field House the Yegger Bobkittens smacked the DeQueen Leopard Cubs 45-27.

That evening the Kittens' mark at 1-1, with two more games coming up next week.

Yegger started off cold, and actually trailed it 7-3 at the quarter and 11-3 with 5:14 left in the half. That was the turning point, though, as guard Buddy Ingram led a comeback with repeated steals of Cub passes for eight points in the stretch.

Still DeQueen had it 15-14 at the half, but when Kitten Danny Joyce hit a 15-footer to open the third period Hope went into a full-court press that shut off the visitors. Ingram and Joyce traded points all the way through, and a 10-3 spree in the three minutes made it 31-19 Hope entering the final segment.

More of the same waxed it up for the Bobkittens in the finale, leading up to the 45-27 outcome. Buddy Ingram netted 22, Joyce 8, Jay Barentine 7, Doug Archer 3, Don Lively and Tim Hogan two, and Jimmy Smith one for Yegger. Gary Dyas led DeQueen with 14 points.

That second game was more satisfying to local fans, as the Hope Lady Cats made it 1-1 with a resounding 60-39 whipping of the DeQueen Leopardettes.

It started with about four minutes gone by, as Hope moved in to command and the foullgest ball game in a decade preceded.

With a 7-6 lead, Belinda East and Dee Singleton did the offensive work along with Mary Beth Millican in scoring ten straight points for the Lady Cats, and the 17-6 spread lasted to a big 23-10 score at the period's close.

Fouls kept up in the second frame while scoring slowed down, but the Hope defense of Sharon East, Cindy Hollis, and Betty Rodden was at its best in these seven minutes.

Singleton's 20 points led all scorers at intermission with Hope on top 31-17, and it was never really a contest after that. They increased it to 49-26 after three quarters before Belinda East's crisp shot with 0:43 showing made it a sixty-point effort for the Ladies in their first win, 60-39.

Singleton meshed 32 points, a season high, and East 21 while Millican contributed seven for the total of 60. Janet Etzkorn piled up 17 and Lygia Carver 10 for the Leopardettes.

Penn State Will Also Get Plaque

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, scrambling like a quarterback about to be pounced on by a 300-pound tackle, has decided to give a plaque to the undefeated Penn State football team as well as the winner of today's Texas-Arkansas game.

Nixon found the blitz was on Friday on the eve of his trip to Fayetteville, Ark., to view the big Texas-Arkansas game and to present a plaque designating the winner as the nation's top team.

Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer along with officials and students of Penn State think their team is due the honor.

The Republican governor sent Nixon a telegram Friday asking him to withhold judgment on the No. 1 team until after the bowl games when the Associated Press will take a final poll to determine the national champion.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler called time Friday while the administration hurriedly huddled to decide whether to punt, pass or run.

At one point, it was announced the plaque was intended only as a momento for the winner of this particular game.

It was pointed out to Ziegler, however, that the plaque reads: "To the No. 1 college football team in college football's 100th year."

Then, switching signals at the line of scrimmage, Ziegler announced Nixon would present Penn State a plaque to recognize the Nittany Lions' record of 21 consecutive victories, the nation's longest current winning streak.

"We have no objection to this as long as they accompany it with another plaque designating Penn State as No. 1," the governor said in Harrisburg, Pa.

The Texas-Arkansas game today matched the AP's No. 1 and No. 2 ranked teams in college football's last regular season game.

Penn State is ranked No. 3. A Penn State spokesman suggests Friday that Nixon should leave the selection of No. 1 to the experts.

Shafer, a close friend of Nixon and an ardent supporter of Penn State, said in his telegram the assumption that the winner of the Texas-Arkansas game is the top team is "absolutely unwarranted."

John Mooney, president of the Football Writers Association of America and sports editor of the Salt Lake City Tribune, invited Nixon to today's game.

Pro Football About To Enter New Era

By FRAN TARKENTON
Written for NEA

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Many revolutionary things have happened to pro football in this decade and now, with less than a month remaining in the 1960s, the natural question arises: What will the 1970s bring?

There will be new stars in the '70s, of course, and coaches will surely add a few new twists to the game, but even more significant is the fact that the game itself will be launched on a completely new era. When this season ends, fans are going to have to do a lot of studying to keep up with the changes that are going to be made in the entire structure of pro football.

Next season, the NFL and AFL will become one entity, completing the merger first announced in 1966. The Cleveland Browns, Baltimore Colts and Pittsburgh Steelers will be leaving what used to be the NFL and join the American Conference of the "new" National Football League. The rest of the teams will be juggled until both the American and National Conferences have three divisions each, totaling 13 teams.

It all sounds confusing at first, but it really isn't so bad. It all boils down to each conference having two four-team divisions and one of five teams. The confusion is not in the set-up itself, but in the juggling that will take place to determine which team plays in which division. The team owners, of course, are going to insist upon creating some new geographic rivalries, like the Giants and Jets in New York, the Rams and Chargers in southern California without sacrificing any of the established rivalries that have evolved over the years. Succeeding to every one's satisfaction will be the biggest trick of all.

Besides the new league alignment, the fans in 1970 are going to have to adjust to a new play-off system that does seem a trifle complicated. Since each of the conferences next year will have three divisions, they will be assured of three division champions. But, in order to have a four-team play-off for the conference championship, they will add a fourth team by selecting the second-place team with the best record. That means there will be three division champions and one second-place team playing off for the conference title.

It also means that a second-place team in the regular season could win the conference title and even the Super Bowl. Which isn't all that revolutionary, when you consider the Boston Celtics finished fourth during the regular NBA season and won the championship last year.

But I must admit some confusion over what will happen, say, if two teams wind up in a regular-season tie for second place and their records are better than the other runners-up.

Getting back to the realignment of the league, I think the NFL is going to try to keep the four Central Division teams together. They are, of course, the Bears, Lions, Packers and Vikings. But what will happen in the East and West is open to debate. The team that seems to be in limbo, geographically, is Dallas, which could wind up in either coast. And I don't think either division is going to try too hard to get a team as good as the Cowboys.

What football could use to help alleviate the talent drain is a minor-league system, where small-college players, especially, can spend a year or two maturing for the pros. Although the minor-league system would be beneficial to the leagues and even the players, I don't think it will ever succeed. But that's another story.

Colleges Can't Supply Talent To Keep Up with Pro Expansion

By FRAN TARKENTON
Written for NEA

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The divisional races in the National Football League are pretty well wrapped up and I don't think anybody is too surprised that the Rams, Cowboys, Vikings and Browns are on the verge of clinching titles.

Of the four, only the Browns fall short of being a truly outstanding team. The Rams, Cowboys and Vikings are exactly that—outstanding. I mean, they are teams that are capable of winning, week after week, against anybody. In fact, I'd have to say the Rams, Cowboys and Vikings are the only three outstanding teams in the entire league.

The rest they can put in a bushel basket, shuffle them, and they'd all wind up pretty much the same. But one pretty good point can be made by all this: If only three teams in the entire league can be considered outstanding, can it mean that the colleges are simply unable to supply enough talent for 26 teams in pro football?

Let's go back a decade, for comparison purposes. In 1959, there were 12 teams in pro football. The roster limit in 1959 was 33 men to a team. That means there were 396 players in all of professional football that year.

Now look at 1969. There are 26 teams in two leagues, each with 40-man rosters. That means there are 1,040 players in pro football—almost three times as many as there were in 1959. Which means the colleges, theoretically, should be turning out three times as much talent. Are they?

I really don't think so. And that's why the teams in the NFL, with the exception of the Big Three, have dropped off to a fairly equal level. You can't blame the colleges because the problem lies with the tremendous growth of pro football in the last decade. The demand has simply overdrawn the supply.

In the 1970s, when the growth of pro football finally peaks, I think the situation will improve. Many people—myself included—have suggested that the player rosters be trimmed to 35 men, or 37, but the injury factor eliminates such a move. The players today are bigger and stronger and faster than ever before, but they seem to get hurt more than ever before. To trim five, or even three, players from a roster cuts into the reserve strength of a team should a rash of injuries occur.

Milwaukee Is Sold (Out) on Alcindor

By PHIL BERGER
Written for NEA

MILWAUKEE — (NEA) — The way things happen these days in Milwaukee, Ferdinand and Lewis Alcindor Jr. makes the Pied Piper of Hamelin look like kid's stuff.

Not long ago, for instance, he appeared unannounced in the black community's Inner Core shopping district and quickly had about him a gallery rivaled only by Arnold Palmer's militia.

Alcindor's faculty for drawing crowds is not confined to ghetto streets. This year the 7-foot-1 Milwaukee Bucks rookie is bringing the people into dingy Milwaukee Arena. In his first appearance there, at an intrasquad game last June, a crowd of 10,000 persons paid two bucks apiece to see big Lew. And the people have kept coming.

"Season ticket sales," says Jim Foley, Bucks publicity man, "are up 40 to 50 per cent over last year. Crowds averaged 6,200 then. This year it's likely to be better than 8,200 a game." Capacity for the arena is 10,746. This by no means signals the demise of the city's established sports institution, the Green Bay Packers. What- ever Alcindor has done for pro basketball, the citizenry has not forsaken its passion for football.

"The Packers are still king in Milwaukee," concedes Foley. "The saloon talk is about them. And there's still the Sunday afternoon ritual of watching Green Bay play."

Nevertheless, the Bucks are cornering a piece of the spectator market. At the season opener against the Detroit Pistons, Buck rooters unfurled banners in the fashion New York Met legions made famous. A Go-Bucks-Go club for youngsters drew over 1,000 applicants in its first week—despite a $5 fee, stiff tariff for small fry. And, most important, the people clamor for tickets.

"Before Lew," says black sportswriter Cal Patterson of the Greater Milwaukee Star, "I couldn't give Buck tickets away. Now I don't know how to satisfy all the demands."

The difference in attitude is detected by Buck players, too. Says Milwaukee guard Jon McGlocklin: "People were aware of us last year, but not like now, not with Lew around. I go downtown, and I'm sure to be stopped in the streets or have my name called out."

The people's choice, however, remains the Packers, a sentiment reflected in commercial tracts that appear in the media. Examples:

MEET RAY NITSCHKE AND GET AN AUTOGRAPHED PICTURE OF THE ALL-TIME, ALL-PRO MIDDLE LINEBACKER OF THE GREEN BAY PACKERS—Tele-Tech TV and Appliance, 7818 N. Teutonia.

PACKER BACKER VALUES: YOU'LL SCORE WITH THESE GAME-WINNING PRICES ON THE BEST CARS IN THE LEAGUE.

GREEN BAY 38, STEELERS 34.—Holt Electric Motor Co., 5223 W. State Street.

If the Nitschkes and Starrs have greater marketability in Milwaukee, nobody in the town has more influence among the black community than Alcindor. Says sportswriter Patterson: "He doesn't ignore the people, particularly the young ones. He's had quite a few church speaking engagements—at least 10 in a month and a half. Mostly question-and-answer things. As a result there are more young black faces at the arena now."

The Buck fans—black or white—are an enthusiastic if still untutored group. Last year's per game attendance of 6,200 was a league record for a first-year team. But Milwaukee backers are only beginning to appreciate the nuances of the game.

Says Bob Wolf of the Milwaukee Journal: "The intentional foul situation (the so-called give-one) boggled their minds. They didn't understand the notion of giving one point to get a chance at two. But say this for 'em: they're appreciative of the good effort."

And critical of the substandard effort—even in Alcindor's case. In a recent game against the Knicks, Alcindor was booed at one point when he was outplayed by New York's Willis Reed. Later, when he deflected a Knick pass and hustled after it downtown, the Milwaukee fans cheered.

Alcindor's most avid rooters, not surprisingly, are the young ladies. Lew is a bachelor. In Milwaukee, they seek his unlisted phone number and stroll past Juneau Village, the luxury apartment complex in which he lives. The height of womanly chutzpah occurred after a preseason game in Chicago, however, when two lady friends accompanied Alcindor onto the team bus.

"Coach (Larry) Costello had to remind everybody that the bus was leaving," says Jim Foley.

The Pier Piper should have had it so good.

Mills Thinks Tax Bills to Be on Time

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief House tax architect says despite major alterations made by the Senate in the tax reform bill, Congress will agree on legislation and send it to the President before Christmas.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said in an interview: "We simply have to finish it."

"There would be too much confusion if we did not—for example on withholding the surtax after Dec. 31," the Arkansas Democrat added.

One provision in the massive bill continues the income surtax at 5 per cent through June 30, 1970. The current 10 per cent surtax expires Dec. 31.

The Senate is scheduled to finish its work on the bill not later than next week.

This would leave only a week and a half for a conference between the two bodies to reconcile the differences and for final action in both chambers before Christmas.

The principal difference so far between the two bills results from adoption of an amendment by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to raise the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $800. This substitutes for a system of rate reductions in the House measure.

Mills followed his usual rule of declining advance comment on what stand he will take in the conference, where he will be chief House spokesman, but his general position is well known.

He thinks raising the personal exemption is a poor way to reduce taxes because it means more saving for a high-bracket than a low-bracket taxpayer. Moreover, he advocates a tax system with the fewest exemptions and deductions and the lowest rates.

But Mills also knows sentiment is strong in the House for the easily-understood increase in the personal exemption.

A possible compromise would be a smaller increase in the exemption, coupled with an adjustment in rates—especially the top rates on earned income, which Mills wants to reduce as provided in the House bill.

The drive to enact the tax bill this year picked up even more steam Thursday when Sen. Russell Long, D-La., who is handling the bill in the Senate, moved to add to it the 15 per cent Social Security benefit increase already approved by the Ways and Means Committee.
